Question 1:

You are required to write a TCP client server application program in which Server is waiting for connections
Client connects with the server
Client send a message to the server
Server echoes the same message to the client